Watchers are the bread and butter of most online businesses. You've no doubt seen the little bar at the top of your browser, which tells you how long you have been watching a particular website. But what if your browsing wasn't just from your browser, but from your phone as well? What if you could set up an app on your phone that would alert you if you've been watching an item for a certain amount of time? The primary task of BT Watcher Pro is to do exactly this, and more. It can monitor the usage of any site you designate. When you start watching something, you can set a time-limit. If you've been browsing a page for a set amount of time, you will get a notification. BT Watcher Pro enables you to control how many notifications you want, as well as how many minutes they take before they vanish from the screen. There's also an option to disable specific sites from displaying notifications, which is useful if you want to only see the information on specific pages. On top of monitoring, the app also lets you schedule when and what pages are visible. That way, you can make sure you are regularly checking a certain page or website when you're online. As far as the settings go, the user-friendly interface will enable you to adjust the notifications and the time limit. You can also enable/disable the notifications when the time is up, as well as change the email address. You can also view a list of sites that have caused you notifications. Bottom line Overall, BT Watcher Pro is a useful and effective app that's sure to make your time spent online much more convenient. Inexperienced users can definitely work with this program thanks to the helpful and intuitive interface. CNET VLC Media Player for Android is available for Android devices running Android 3.0

Once you get the simple, easy-to-use interface, everything else is an inevitable straight-forward process. The program lets you easily manage media files and extract frames from videos. What makes it even better is that it can also generate GIF files in a few clicks. If you love the idea of having animated GIFs from the various videos you find on the internet, then you can't get it much better than Free Video to GIF Converter. The program can be used for video extractions from various formats, such as AVI, MP4, FLV, MOV, WMV, and 3GP, and you can even convert them to the GIF format. The interface is not only simple but it also offers multiple customization options so that you can save time and enable even the most basic settings. The app offers the following features: You can use the program to extract frames from videos of any length, even those you don't have. The number of frames to extract can be set to a specific value or set automatically according to the video file. All frames are placed in a single file, and you can trim unwanted frames with just a few clicks. Once you get to the end, the program provides a simple interface that lets you manage all extracted frames and clip them according to your needs. You can change their length and resize them to save space and have different frame sizes. The app can also convert the video frames into the GIF format. It supports a wide range of file formats, such as AVI, MP4, FLV, MOV, WMV, and 3GP. You can even customize the layout, and change the image size to get an animation that matches your overall preferences. The desired length and FPS (frames per second) can be set at the same time. You can even create a series of animations from a single video. You can even preview all the extracted frames to see how they look like and remove the redundant ones, if needed. The video extractions can be exported to the GIF format and you can save them to the destination folder with just a few clicks. It is recommended to keep the output size at a minimum as it helps conserve the space and make the GIF files easier to upload online. Ad-free You can also use the program to convert any video format to the GIF format. You can use the program to get an animation that you can upload to the various social networking platforms
